

Meet Jen!

I began teaching at FPCS in the fall of 2008, the year after my husband accepted his call as the Senior Pastor at FPC. Prior to that, I had taught kindergarten at two private schools in Memphis, TN. I love teaching at FPCS! Not only do I love teaching these amazing Kindergarteners, but I love the partnership we have with the parents as well. We are a team, bringing the best of ourselves every day to bring up leaders who are compassionate, confident, respectful of others, and have a faith that will continue to grow throughout their lives. My goal in teaching is to give every child what they need to grow in their academics while nurturing their individuality, and social and emotional needs. My hope is that each will know they are loved and valued as individuals not only by our school community but by God as well.
